MONTHLY AFTERNOON TEA
WEDNESDAY 6th OCTOBER
LISLE COMMON ROOM

Please come along and join us for our monthly afternoon tea.

Guest speaker – Patrick Cornish

Patrick is a journalist, a writer who will retire only when they carry him out..... now spends most of his working time on compiling and editing family history.

His continuing connection with the newspaper world is through writing obituaries for The West Australian. He was the paper's full-time obituaries writer and editor when the section was launched in 2000.

Journalism and recording chronicles, Patrick adds, is often a messy business.

There are many moral dilemmas,
some of which he will discuss at our afternoon tea.

However, if you're a curious type who wonders why people often behave in weird ways, it's probably the best job in the world.

We look forward to seeing you.

Start time is 2pm

Mud crabbing on the Dampier Peninsula by Jill Munro, Lisle Lodge

Yet another day on the Dampier Peninsula in the sunny beautiful Kimberley! This time looking for mud crabs.

A mangrove forest.....

Tides out in the bay so time to search for Mudcrabs !

In Kimberley coastal areas they experience two high tides and two low tides every 24 hours.

You can see us way out in the bay - 4 figures. This bay is fringed by Mangrove trees and has an ecosystem of its own teeming with all manner of shellfish, fish and in this area crocodiles.

It's hard to imagine this whole bay will be soon covered with water!

Josh with one of the 9 mudcrabs caught.

Mudcrabs best grilled over a hot fire as soon as caught.
